Scholarship Program for Excellent Graduate Students

The Robert H. Smith Faculty of Agriculture, Food, and Environment

The Robert H. Smith Faculty of Agriculture, Food, and Environment is offering scholarships for excellent research track graduate students starting in the 2020-2021 academic year.

Excellent undergraduate students (avg. 90 or higher) who chose to study for a master’s degree in one of the Faculty’s research tracks will receive a monthly scholarship of 6000 NIS plus tuition, for a period of two years (200%).

Acceptance to the master’s program requires consent from the department and requires finding a thesis advisor prior to registering for studies. Scholarship recipients will commit full time to their research (excluding cases in which they are required by their departments or by the institute to work as TAs) and they are required to fulfill all academic requirements during the time allotted for their graduate theses.

Recipients will be chosen by the Faculty’s Scholarship Committee. To apply, candidates must acquire a recommendation from their advisor.

The program is open for students who will begin their studies in the autumn semester of the academic year 2020-2021 and for those who began their studies in the spring semester of the academic year 2020. Students who began their graduate studies in the spring semester of 2020 will receive a scholarship for 3 semesters.

The deadline for registration is August 1, 2020.

For further information click here